SPRING

With the arrival of spring nothing feels better than a wardrobe that's flattering, stylish, and makes you feel like a million dollars. If you're feeling stuck in the garments of seasons past, then it's time to revitalise your wardrobe by editing out the old and making room for the new. Here are a few tips to ready your wardrobe:

Tip 1 Start with the end in mind. Before launching into a wardrobe organising frenzy, get a clear mental image of how you want your wardrobe to look, feel, and function. What is your style, and lifestyle, today? Defining these things in advance will help you take decisions on what warrants a place. Remember, your wardrobe should be a retrieval area for fabulous clothes you love and wear now. Anything else is superfluous and taking up valuable space.

The New: Rio Crepe
 Tatiana Top, £175,
 Kate Spade New York

Tip 2 Edit 'Like with Like'. Instead of editing one garment at a time at random, start by gathering groups of similar items. For example, a single pair of black trousers on their own may not send off any alarms, but seeing them amidst six others may make you realise they're not THE black trousers you reach for, so the rest can go.

The New: Y-3 Wedge
 Sandal, £340, Y-3

Tip 3 Does it pass the fabulous test? Eliminate anything that doesn't truly fit, flatter or make you feel like a million dollars when it's on. You know which items they are. If an outfit isn't quite right now, it never will be. Ignore any pangs of guilt and create space for those fabulous new outfits you'll love.

Tip 4 Forget the price tag. Yes, it can be difficult parting with expensive clothing you never wear. But those items are taking up prime real estate in your wardrobe. To ease the pain, consider this: the money is already spent. Say to yourself, "I tried it and it wasn't for me", then give the garment to someone who will wear and adore it; maybe a friend or local charity.

The New: On Aura Tout Vu
 'Compliments' Cuff, £199,
 Cadenzza

Tip 5 No more wire hangers! You've culled and refreshed your wardrobe with a new look, but don't stop there. Give your clothes dignity with quality uniform hangers. They will better support your clothes and the uniformity of garments all hanging at the same height is aesthetically pleasing. Look after the things that look after you and make you feel fabulous!
